Penultimate approximations for (sums of) extremes.

L. de Haan (Rotterdam), S. Cheng (Beijing).

Abstract

In certain cases the distribution of the normalized maximum of a sample can be better approximated by a sequence of different extreme value distributions than by the final one.

We show when this is possible and how much the improvement turns out to be. A somewhat similar result will be presented for Hill's estimator.