On the limiting distribution of extremes

Serguei Novak
School of Mathematical Sciences
University of Sussex, UK

Abstract

Given a stationary sequence of random variables, we establish necessary and sufficient conditions for the "complete convergence" of a 2-dimensional empirical point process of extremes to a compound Poisson point process. Generalisations to a non-stationary case are also given.