Preface

Chris Peters at Grenoble was organising a small meeting on group actions on varities. I decided to go on short notice, not to give a talk, but just to be around, maybe picking something up. And it would also enable me to go to Paris for the third time in a year, an unprecedented opportunity.

It was a quick dash, flying down to Paris availing myself of the fast TGV service to Grenoble. A few talks, some social gatherings, a small hike, some shopping, and some sight-seeing, including an exhibition. Nothing remarkable, but that has not stopped me from my usual detailed documentations.
